The Ministry of Education defines bullying as a form of repeated, persistent and aggressive behaviour directed at an individual that is intended to cause fear or harm to another person's feeling, self-esteem or reputation. Bullying occurs in a context where there is a real or perceived power imbalance. Using this definition, has your child been bullied at Clinton?

Let's take a stance to concentrate on things that our kids go to school for mainly: math, grammar, and science. Advocacy is not as important for children that are struggling with math and grammar.

I would also support in person events once they are allowed again.

I hope the dog usage can be resolved, as a dog owner I appreciate not wanting students playing on fields where numerous dogs relieve themselves.

Under: "What should School Council focus on this year?" it gave no option for improved teaching. There is too much concern with activism and psychological issues (the responsibilities of parents) and too little concern with teaching, learning, practicing, applying and studying. Teachers should teach enthusiastically and keep one eye open for children in distress, and leave it at that. One of the reasons North American students are behind Japanese students is because of the over-reaching, activist nature of the teachers unions. The Conference Board of Canada gave Canada a "B" compared to Japan. Teachers should be activists and armchair psychologists on their own time, -not with other people's children.
